The Opportunity

The Queensland Aboriginal and Islander Health Council (QAIHC) is offering an opportunity to join a leadership organisation; in a position where you will work in an inspiring and positive environment to provide sector support, resources and training that will contribute to better Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health outcomes.

Organisation Overview

QAIHC is a non-partisan peak organisation representing all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Community Controlled Health Organisations (ATSICCHOs) across Queensland at both state and national level. Our members deliver comprehensive and culturally appropriate, world class primary health care services to their communities.

QAIHC was established in 1990. Our vision is the elimination of disparities in health and well being experienced by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples in Queensland. QAIHC contributes to this vision by leading the development of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Community Controlled Health Sector in Queensland through evidence based, practical public policy solutions.

QAIHC has four key business divisions:

- Sector Development;
- Policy and Research;
- Corporate Services; and
- Commercial.

Policy and Research Division Overview

The Policy and Research business division of QAIHC is responsible for developing high quality public policy, submissions and publications that influence change. Our four policy focus areas (primary health care, health service systems, health funding and health workforce) cover the risks and opportunities that impact on the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Community Controlled Health Sector in Queensland.

This division of QAIHC is also responsible for ensuring that health service leaders in Queensland have an opportunity to contribute directly to the development of public policy and for establishing quality, long term relationships with external partners who want to contribute to the work QAIHC undertakes.

Sector Development Division Overview

The Sector Development business division of QAIHC works closely with the sector to lead and build the organisational capacity and capability of our members. Our four sector development focus areas cover the risks and opportunities that impact on the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Community Controlled Health Sector in Queensland. We develop the sector through leadership development, education, workforce planning, a Continuous Quality Improvement framework (quality standards and quality management) and through the promotion of a socially equitable funding model and system.

Corporate Services Overview

The Corporate Services business division of QAIHC provides high level entity-wide administrative and operational support to all of QAIHC. This support includes financial, facility and information and communication technology (ICT) systems and process management. The Corporate Services business division is responsible for human resource support services, procurement and the marketing and communication functions of QAIHC.

Commercial Overview

The Commercial Services business division of QAIHC consists of the Business Quality Centre (BQC). This entity is the commercial business area of QAIHC. It provides fee-for-service professional financial, human resources and information and communication technology services to a wide range of external customers.

Position Overview

As the Senior Policy Officer, you will support the organisation in the provision of high-quality policy advice on complex and high-profile health policy areas in the Aboriginal and Islander Community Controlled Health Sector in Queensland.

Key Responsibilities

In this role, you will be required to:

- Advocate for the Sector by supporting the development of health policy and initiatives in line with the strategic direction of QAIHC;
- provide advice, analysis and options on a range of health policy matters;
- prepare and present detailed, comprehensive reports based on evidence that provides solutions to address the health of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in Queensland;
- build and maintain positive relationships with key stakeholders and senior staff
- contribute to innovation; assisting QAIHC to deliver on key policies and initiatives; and
- proactively identify current and emerging programme related issues.

What we are looking for

We will assess your merit for this role by looking at what you've done previously – the leadership, knowledge, skills and experience you've built and your personal qualities. We'll consider how well you can:

- understand and respond to health policy development;
- draw on a range of information sources to identify new ways of doing things;
- actively influence and promote ideas;
- manage stakeholders and relationships; and
- understand the job context and environment.

Pre-requisite Skills & Experience

- Specific policy development knowledge;
- Understanding of relevant state and federal government decision making process;
- Exceptional relationship skills and an ability to engage with a broad range of stakeholders;
- Advanced communication and interpersonal skills;
- Highly developed influential writing skills;
- Understanding of the ATSI CCHOs and the issues facing them;
- Demonstrated experience of working with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities and their leaders, respecting traditional culture, values and ways of doing business;
- Clinical health sector background - highly desirable; and
- Relevant tertiary qualifications and demonstrated experience in a similar role.
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander candidates are highly encouraged to apply

Additional information

- A probationary period of six (6) months will apply to appointees.
- Referee checking will be undertaken and other pre-employment checks may occur prior to any offer of employment.
- Criminal history checks will be undertaken on the preferred applicant(s). A criminal conviction or charge will not automatically exclude an applicant from consideration for appointment. If information is received that may exclude you from further consideration, you will be given an opportunity to respond and your response will be taken into account in the evaluation process.
- The recommended applicant will be required to disclose any serious disciplinary action taken against them.
- Applications will remain current for a period of 12 months after the closing date for receipt of applications for the original vacancy.
